O presente trabalho apresenta um levantamento das representações socioculturais acerca da diversidade sexual e de gênero na sede carioca do Arquivo Nacional, tendo como referencial metodológico a perspectiva de arquivo enquanto campo etnográfico. Neste sentido, procura revelar como a documentação depositada naquela instituição, em diferentes épocas e nos mais variados fundos de instituições ou coleções privadas, retrata os sujeitos desviantes tanto da heteronormatividade quanto da identidade de gênero com base no sexo biológico. Assim, busca-se contribuir para o conhecimento sobre o papel dos arquivos públicos na sedimentação de preconceitos, inverdades e sentimentos hostis, como reflexo da própria sociedade, e para a ressignificação das subjetividades de lésbicas, gays, bissexuais, transexuais e travestis em relação ao que, persistindo na condição de memória sobre a sua existência, perpetua-se no tempo através de atitudes discriminatórias e intolerantes ou de resistência e transgressão às normas hegemônicas.
